DEFINITION OF A CHAMBER OF COMMERCE:

A Chamber of Commerce is defined as a voluntary membership organization of the business community which unites the efforts of business and professional individuals to improve the economy, build a better community, and enable business people to accomplish collectively what no one person/business could do individually.

Its strength lies in attracting the greatest number of firms/individuals into Chamber membership, thereby creating a pool of resources from which can be drawn ideas, energy, and finances.

The overall objective of the Chamber of Commerce is to ensure progressive and orderly economic community development.
